1904

The ice cream cone is introduced at the St. Louis World's Fair.

1948

Bob Neal Sr. purchases Miller's Dairy, a full line dairy. The name is changed to Park Dairy. Park Dairy makes 5 flavors of ice cream: Vanilla, Chocolate, Lemon, French Vanilla and Blue Moon.

1959

The Neal family decides to quit processing milk, butter, and cottage cheese to focus solely on ice cream.

1961

Bob Neal Jr. graduates with a degree from MSU in Dairy Technology and joins his father as partner and plant manager. The plant is remodeled to produce 600 gallons of ice cream per hour.

1964

Park Dairy changes it's corporate name to the well-known name of today - House of Flavors. The phrase House of Flavors started as a tag line describing Park Dairy.

1976

Ludington House of Flavors Restaurant is remodeled as a full service restaurant/ice cream parlor. Mainstreet House of Flavors opens.

1995

Bob & Kay Neal, and Barry & Cindy Neal, remodel Ludington House of Flavors Restaurant to it's current format.

2002

NEW USE FOR STRAWS

Messed-up soda shop is evidence of Michigan's young fry's new fad

NEW USE FOR STRAWS

Messed-up soda shop is evidence of Michigan's young fry's new fad

In Ludington, Michigan the Park Dairy Bar took on a new look. There young Ludingtonites added a new gimmick to the old trick of using straws as blowguns. They discovered that when the casings in which straws come wrapped are dipped in malted milks and then blown upward, they stick to the ceiling in a juicy stain. At first Owner Robert Neal tried knocking the straws off, but the next day there would always be more suspended above him. Now he is resigned to having his place look like a subterranean grotto hung with stalactites because, though the malted-bearing missiles make an awful mess, his youthful patrons have taken to ordering several malteds at a time to insure a plentiful supply of ammunition.
